This contract is the result of a Proof of Value that was implemented early in 2019 across 10 vendors for the same US Government agency. WhiteHawk demonstrated through automation and subject matter expertise, the status and health of suppliers; using global publicly available data sources, AI analytics, and custom Cyber Analytics to assess and report on top risk indicators and vectors, areas that may require prioritized attention. Because the Cyber Risk Radar approach is externally available data based and is non-invasive, WhiteHawk does not require access to internal IT assets and configurations in order to deliver its services.

Terry Roberts, Executive Chair of WhiteHawk, commented, "After a very successful Proof of Value early last year, now we are putting in place our first 5-year Cyber Risk Radar contract with a sophisticated U.S. Government CIO, who will work with us to take the capabilities of our platform and virtual services to the next level."
