La Paz Rare Earth Project: NI 43-101 Upgrade

The Report dated 23 July 2020 was prepared by Erik A. Ostensoe, a Qualified Person as defined in National Instrument 43-101. The report was prepared to provide written disclosure of the La Paz Rare Earth Project, located in La Paz County, Arizona, USA, a property that is material to La Paz Rare Earth LLC, and to recommend a staged program of exploration of that property.

Wyoming Rare Strategic Acquisition

Wyoming Rare (USA), operates the Laramie Rare Earths Elements (REE) Project in Wyoming. The acquisition includes the Company acquiring all data, samples and maps, associated with the Laramie REE Project and the exploration permits. The purchase is subject to a condition precedent of the grant of one or more mineral leases, that Zenith will sell to ARR, or its nominee.

American Rare Earths Limited September 2020 Quarterly Activities Report

Highlights of Sampling Program – La Paz Rare Earth Project

The significance of this report is the identification of the various rock types within the resource area. Petrographic analysis of all samples has provided details of the most prolific mineralized rocks containing Rare Earth Elements (REE) and Scandium which also resides within the mineralized zones.

Now with a better understanding of the genesis of the REE's together with the contained Scandium the resource geologists are producing 3D models which will provide a pathway to the next steps in planning drill targets to further define the resource within the expanded La Paz mineralized system.

Highlights of Trenching Program – La Paz Rare Earths Project

A trenching program was conducted between the 2 mineralization zones which have been divided by alluvium. The purpose of the trenching was to reach bedrock from which more samples could be taken and to identify the underlying rock types. Pending assay returns, the initial identification of rock types shows the potential of linking the original resource to the new expanded locations. Further work is being undertaken to support the belief that the two zones are in fact one very large mineralized system which significantly adds to the La Paz footprint.

Update on Australian Mining Claims

Following our strategic review, during the June 2020 quarter, the Company rationalized its Murray Basin tenement holdings - to focus on our North American rare earth elements holdings.

The following Victorian tenements, (EL 6614, EL6583, EL 6584, EL 6585) have been relinquished.

The Company's Broken Hill region tenements have not changed. (EL 8773, EL 8776, EL 8775).

Update on La Paz Mining Claims

During the quarter the company's Arizona mining claims (AMCs) have been overhauled (Map 1 attached).

Significantly, the State of Arizona, mineral exploration permit over 639 acres has been renewed. The 176, U.S Department of the Interior, Bureau of Land Management, mining claims were renewed. Which together with the 42, New U.S Department of the Interior, Bureau of Land Management, mining claims granted at La Paz gives the company over 20 square kilometers of continuous claim control. The current property position has been expanded to the Southwest due to favorable Rare Earths and Scandium sampling results. This presents the opportunity to increase the resource through additional drilling in this area in 2021. The current lode claims, and AZ State Exploration Permit Area held by the Company is 5,143 Acres (2,081 Hectares). The current defined resource sits within an area of approximately 525 of those acres (212 Hectares).

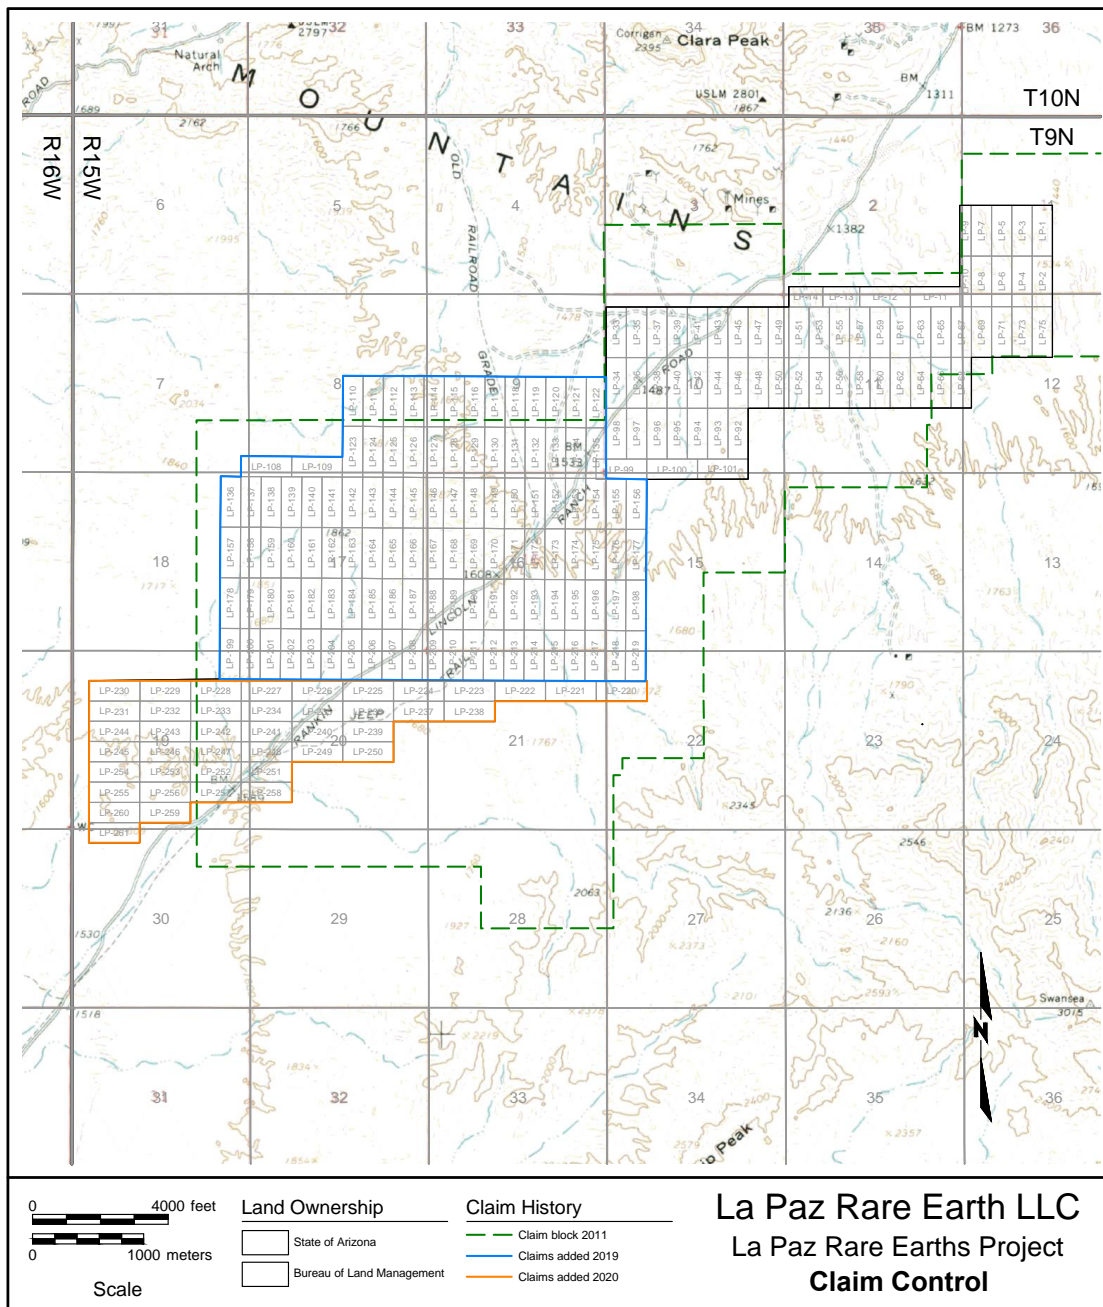

Update on Technical reporting; JORC 2012 and La Paz field work

A JORC 2012 compliant Technical Report, incorporating historical data and analysis of recent field work at La Paz is being undertaken by the technical team.

A limited 6-hole coring program has been proposed and is anticipated to begin in November 2020. The cost of this drilling program and associated metallurgical test work is estimated at $390,000. Initial metallurgical test work would begin post the drilling program in November or December. Pending the results of this work, more advanced metallurgical studies should be implemented in early 2021. The Wood Group in Perth recommended an advanced metallurgical testing program based on the test results to date. Pending the results of the late 2020 core test work the proposed Wood program should be evaluated in detail for delivery.

These activities undertaken by the Company will provide the backdrop for the planned Preliminary Economic Assessment (PEA) due for completion in late 2021.
