Executive Chairman, Mr Keong Chan said:

“As announced on 8 October 2020, AuMake has made a transformative strategic change to its business model towards an online future that will bring the latest consumer technology trends in China to Australian brands. Our focus during the September quarter squarely centred on this change which saw a reallocation of resources and the launch of our new online platform in early October.

“Our longer-term online strategy including the development of the social e-commerce marketplace provides us with growth opportunities for the future that is not predicated on but will only strengthen when borders open particularly given our strength in the Asian tourist industry.

“We have continued to service our current loyal customers and will reactivate as many as possible on our new online platform. We will also reduce our physical store footprint over the next 12 months however they will serve as valuable strategic assets once international borders open and will be an important part of our broader online strategy.

“There are strong activity levels on the new online platform with a record number of new members who have never shopped through AuMake before. This is in line with our influencer acquisition strategy as part of our broader strategy. We look forward to updating the market on the ongoing roll out, member and gross merchandise value growth of the new online platform.”

- Item 6.2 consists of $132,938 is related to the consideration payment for the Broadway business to a related party.

Online operations

AuMake continued to service customers via AuMake Online with stable activity rates largely due to the high usage rate of customers who are loyal to the AuMake brand. Broadway Online also continued to perform well with margins above 50% due to its ability to promote AuMake owned brand products.

AuMake's new online platform and future social e-commerce marketplace will eventually consolidate AuMake Online and Broadway Online customer databases onto the one platform.

As highlighted above, there has been significant focus on the development of the new online platform during the September quarter.

The gradual reopening of physical stores will also facilitate member growth on the new online platform and future social e-commerce marketplace by acting as 'funnels' for physical store traffic to go online.

Physical store operations

During the quarter, AuMake progressively re-opened three stores to cater to increased foot traffic and easing of restrictions in these areas. Initial sales within the newly opened stores have been better than expected. To date, the Company has re-opened four of its 14 physical stores.

In line with AuMake's focus to an online business model, AuMake aims to rationalise its physical store footprint. While the Company's business model is shifting away from traditional retail, physical stores will continue to play an important role in converting in-store traffic to the new online platform and future marketplace. This will be especially important as international borders start opening, international students return and Asian tourism resumes.

Outlook

The Company is continuing to effectively manage its cashflow including investment into the new online platform and is well capitalised with $6.2m cash at bank at the end of the quarter.

To reflect the evolution of AuMake, the Company is changing its name and ticker code to “Aumake Limited” subject to shareholder approval at the upcoming AGM.

AuMake looks forward to updating the market shortly on the progress of its new online platform.
