QUARTERLY REPORT 30 SEPTEMBER 2020

Operational Review

Due to the global COVID-19 pandemic, it is regrettable that RMG is still unable to resume field exploration. However, the maintenance of the tenements was as usual. During the quarter, the future exploration plan has been completed by the management.

The objectives of the new exploration plan being proposed are evaluate in detail all of the existing data from previous exploration and mining at the Santa Rosa Mine to prepare an Inferred Resource figure for the mine and to guide additional exploration, in particular drilling, to significantly increase the resource by extending the studies along with strike and down dip.

About Santa Rosa Exploration Proposal， a new but brief evaluation of all the existing data from previous exploration studies and the mining activities is recommended to try to estimate an Inferred Resource of the mineralisation that was drilled previously and not extracted by the mining activities.

Based on an evaluation of all the existing data, the geological mapping at surface and underground in the Santa Rosa mine, together with rock-chip sampling and the results of the IP survey, it should be possible to design a suitable drilling program to evaluate the down-dip extension of the mineralisation beneath the old mine and along strike in order to increase the existing resources at this Prospect.

With an initial 3,000 meters drilling program at the surface, an indication of widths and grades of the mineralised structures along strike from the mine should be achieved. This could be by RC or diamond drilling, depending on the budget, though diamond would be preferable in terms of providing more information on the geology of the system.

The Tuina property (Property) is located approximately 50 km east of Calama city, Antofagasta Region, Northern Chile. The property can be accessed from Calama city by a four-wheel drive field car or truck, following the highway 23 for 32 km in direction to the town San Pedro de Atacama and then turning left on the dirt road B-195 in direction to Tuina for ~26 km. The property is very arid with little to no vegetation or active drainage systems. These features will assist in any environmental permit approvals.

La Teca and Santa Rosa are two prioritized exploration targets in the Tuina Copper Project. La Teca covers around 2,600 ha in the western sector of the Tuina Project. La Teca target is a copper and gold deposit with vein and Manto style copper-silver mineralization and vein gold mineralisation. Santa Rosa is located 11 km northeast of La Teca, and it is a historical copper mine area. The copper mineralisation at Santa Rosa is hosted by a sequence of stacked dacitic breccias and fragmental, and the mineralisation is controlled by a regionally significant north striking fault.

The Tuina Copper Project comprises RMG's interests in total 89 concessions which includes both exploitation concessions (granted and applications) and exploration concessions (granted and applications). All concessions are located in the Tuina District in northern Chile. Including concessions acquired by Purchase Agreement from Chilean company, Chile Metals Consulting SpA ("Chile Metals"), concessions that RMG has on optioned to acquire from private Chilean mining company Porvenir S.C.M. ("Porvenir"), and other concession that RMG has in its own right and not subject to any agreement.

2018 exploration program was conducted on five targets within the Tuina property. The first target is Santa Rosa target, which is located north of Santa Rosa open pit mine. The exploration program at Santa Rosa was conducted in rectangular zone with length of 1 km in NS direction and 50 m in width in EW direction, less than one square kilometer in area on Santa Rosa target (Figure 1).

Three targets (La Teca A, B, C) are located at La Teca area, which is located in the southwest part of Tuina project (Figure 5-2). La Teca area contains a 700-800 m wide, over 8 km long NW-trending fault corridor with intense epidote alteration, where RMG's previous survey discovered a suite of diorite or felsic intrusions, and quartz and calcite veins striking from NW, N to NE with elevated gold and copper values. Zone A and C are located in the NW trending corridor with a total area of 9 km^2. To the west of this fault bounded corridor, there is a circular dome-shaped feature, which also host copper oxide mineralization. La Teca zone B is located in the northwestern portion of this dome, and the area is about 5 km2.
