JUNE 2021 QUARTERLY ACTIVITY REPORT AND APPENDIX 4C – MEMPHASYS LIMITED (ASX: MEM)

Memphasys Limited ('Memphasys' or the 'Company') is pleased to provide its Appendix 4C cash flow statement for the quarter ended 30 June 2021 ('Q4'), along with the following update.

Business activities in the Fourth Quarter (Q4)

Memphasys is focused on reproductive biotechnology and proprietary cell separation techniques. It is developing novel medical devices, diagnostics, and media with application to assisted reproduction technologies in humans and animals.

The Company is currently commercialising the Felix device, which separates high quality sperm for IVF processes. In addition, it has several research and development (R&D) projects being undertaken at the University of Newcastle, Australia.

There was no change in the activities of the Company during Q4. The Company continued spending on R&D projects, staff and consultants at the same pace as it did in the first three quarters of the financial year.

Other administration and corporate costs of $226k in Q4 included payment of $42k in director fees to directors Andrew Goodall, Shane Hartwig and Paul Wright, which is consistent with the previous three quarters of the financial year.

The salary amount of $87.5k was paid to the Executive Chairman, Alison Coutts, which is consistent with the previous three quarters of the financial year. This amount was included within the staff costs.

The lack of proportion between the net cash used in operating activities in Q4 of $1.13m and the net cash used in whole financial year of $2.95m is due to government grants not received in Q4.

Material Developments

On 29 April 2021, the Company announced the successful granting of two additional U.S. patents by the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office, bringing the total number of patents granted to 4.

As announced on 4 May 2021, the Felix device co-developer and head of Memphasys' Scientific Advisory Committee, Professor John Aitken, won the globally prestigious 2021 distinguished andrology award. Professor Aitken also co-wrote a paper with Associate Professor Hassan Bakos that was published in the prestigious journal, "Human Reproduction". Professor Aitken has agreed to join Memphasys and is employed as Research Director by Memphasys, effective 1 July 2021.

On 4 May 2021, the company issued an update on the development progress of the portfolio of pre-commercialisation/R&D reproductive biotechnology projects being undertaken by Professor John Aitken's research group at the University of Newcastle and in particular the stallion dismount fertility diagnostic, that was moving to development of a prototype device.

On 26 May 2021, the company announced that two major shareholders had provided $3m in new funding in the form of a loan to be issued as convertible notes subject to shareholder approval. The funds will be applied to Felix commercialisation and to advance the range of new products being developed with Professor John Aitken's research group at the University of Newcastle.

Verification activities on the upgraded Felix device were completed by 30 June 2021, and this was reported on 1 July 2021. It was also reported that validation activities were expected to be completed by 30 September 2021, and that potential commercial sales discussions with Key Opinion Leaders in early markets were expected to resume in the July-September quarter after they had successfully tested the upgraded device, but subject to prevailing COVID conditions in these early access markets.

This announcement was approved by the Board of Memphasys.

| 8.6 If item 8.5 is less than 2 quarters, please provide answers to the following questions: | |
| 8.6.1 Does the entity expect that it will continue to have the current level of net operating cash flows for the time being and, if not, why not? | |
| Answer: Yes, the entity expects to continue to develop its portfolio of products at a similar rate of spending. | |
| 8.6.2 Has the entity taken any steps, or does it propose to take any steps, to raise further cash to fund its operations and, if so, what are those steps and how likely does it believe that they will be successful? | |
| Answer: The Company anticipates raising $1.07m from the conversion of 32,404,457 options at $0.0332 due to expire at the end of September 2021. In September 2021, the Company also expects to receive approximately $1.36m from the R&D Tax Incentive Scheme. The current cash reserves plus these two sources of funding are considered sufficient to allow the Company to fund its operations to February 2022, based upon projected forecast expenditure. The Company, together with its longstanding corporate advisor Canaccord Genuity, will commence planning an appropriate equity funding package for the Company beyond February 2022. | |

8.6.3 Does the entity expect to be able to continue its operations and to meet its business objectives and, if so, on what basis?

Answer: Yes. The business expects to be able to continue its operations and meet its business objectives on the basis it has the necessary licences, agreements, technical and commercial personnel in place to ensure the Company continues to advance its portfolio of products under development, and in particular, the commercial development of the Felix Device.

Note: where item 8.5 is less than 2 quarters, all of questions 8.6.1, 8.6.2 and 8.6.3 above must be answered.
