AUSTRALIAN RARE EARTHS

ASX: AR3

Sector: Materials - Resources

- Unique early stage ionicclay rare-earths project in South Australia
- The paucity of rare-earth ionic clay deposits outside of China gives AR3 a potentially important advantage in terms of supply chain security. Also, low uranium and thorium contents give its project a major ESG advantage over many of its peers
- AR3 has generated ACQ investors a $27 x^{(1)(2)}$ uplift (on a per share basis)

telix

ASX: TLX

Sector: Healthcare

- Telix is a health technology company that focused on pharmaceuticals
- Telix's research pipeline aims to address significant unmet medical need in prostate, kidney, brain (glioblastoma), and hematologic cancers as well as a range of immunologic and rare diseases
- ACQ first invested in TLX in February 2017 at $$ 0.17^{(2)}$ per share compared to a current $$ 6.17^{(1)}$ share price

$\overparen{\text { ธcamplify }}$

ASX: CHL

Sector: Consumer Discretionary

- Camplify operates a marketplace platform focused on the global caravan and campervan (RV) sharing market
- CHL has grown its global RV owner community to over 6,100 vans
- CHL has generated ACQ investors a 4.04x ${ }^{(1)(2)}$ uplift (on a per share basis)
(1) As at 15 October 2021
(2) Calculated with reference to initial investment price per share adjusted for share splits and consolidations

- ACQ Investment strategy has outperformed its Benchmark since inception ${ }^{(1)}$

Important: Risks associated with Entitlement Offer  Risks to be Considered by Investors

This section describes the key business risks of investing in ACQ together with the risks relating to participation in the Entitlement Offer, which may affect the value of ACQ shares and ACQ's ability to operate as a going concern. It does not describe all the risks of an investment. Before investing in ACQ, you should be aware that an investment in ACQ has a number of risks, some of which are specific to ACQ and some of which relate to listed securities generally, and many of which are beyond the control of ACQ.
Investors should consult their own professional, financial, legal and tax advisers about those risks and the suitability of investing in light of their particular circumstances. Investors should also consider publicly available information on ACQ (including information available on the ASX website) before making an investment decision.
References to "ACQ" or "the Company" in the risks section of this Presentation include ACQ and its related bodies corporate (as defined in the Corporations Act), where the context requires.

| Risk Associated with  Shares Issued Under  Entitlement Offer | New Shares acquired under this Entitlement Offer referred to in this document are considered speculative because of the inherent risks associated with a listed investment company like ACQ. In addition, there are risks  inherent in investing in the share market in general. |
| :--- | :--- |
| The Directors have considered and identified the critical areas of risk associated with acquiring New Shares. |  |

Company Specific Risks (Continued)

Manager Risk The success and profitability of the Portfolio in part will depend upon the ability of the Investment Manager to make investments that increase in value over time and the retention of the Investment Manager as manager of the Portfolio (together with the retention of the Investment Manager's investment professionals).
The following factors may affect the Investment Manager's performance:

2nd even if it does so, there can be no guarantee that the investment strategy will be successful or that the Investment Manager will not make investment decisions that result in unprofitable outcomes;
changing conditions such as:
i. negative changes in market sentiment to microcap companies or equities in general; and
ii. changes in a specificic sector of microcap companies which adversely effects such sector's financial and market performance, may adversely affect the investment strategy and decisions;
3. loss of key clients and/or personnel;
4. market perception of the Investment Manager and its funds management business;
5. market and systemic risk; and
$6 . \quad$ loss or imposition of restrictions on the Investment Manager's AFSL.

Unlisted Security
Risk
The Company's Portfolio includes a number of unlisted securities. In general there is less government regulation and supervision of transactions in the unlisted securities market than of transactions entered into in regulated financial markets. In addition, many of the protections afforded to participants on regulated financial markets may not be available in connection with unlisted securities. There is a risk that in unlisted investments undertaken by the Company, the direct counterparty of the Company will not perform its obligations under the transactions and that the Portfolio consequently suffers losses.
In addition, there may be little or no liquidity in unlisted securities and it may be difficult to establish a robust market price for them. Many unlisted securities are relatively illiquid or have low trading volume. This could enhance the volatility of the price of the securities and/or make it difficult to sell the securities at a later date. The valuation of unlisted securities is more difficult to calculate than listed securities. Valuations may be misleading.
Significant risks in investing in the Company

| Market Risk | Broad market risks include movement in domestic and international securities markets, movements in foreign exchange rates and interest rates, changes in taxation laws and other laws affecting investments and their value.  The Portfolio will be exposed to market and liquidity risks. Certain events may have a negative effect on the price of all types of investments within a particular market. Microcap investments, particularly unlisted microcap investments, may be difficult or impossible to realise at a fair price.  These events may include changes in economic, social, technological or political conditions, as well as market sentiment. Even In a strong share market, the Portfolio may underperform against the market indices. |
| Impact of COVID19 | There is continued uncertainty as to the ongoing impact of COVID-19 on the Australian economy and share markets including in relation to governmental action, work stoppages, university and school stoppages, lockdowns, quarantines, travel restrictions and the impact on the Australian economy and equity and debt capital markets. Any of these events and resulting market fluctuations may materially adversely impact ACQ's earnings or the market price of ACQ's ordinary shares, particularly considering that there is a real possibility that any of ACQ's microcap investments may face pressures if the unemployment rate increases in Australia or Australian economic conditions worsen. Such impacts of the pandemic on ACQ may materially and adversely impact the net tangible asset of the Portfolio. |
| Acquisition activities | From time to time ACQ evaluates acquisition opportunities. Any acquisition would lead to a change in ACQ's net tangible asset and could increase the volatility of its earnings. Integration of new investments into the Portfolio may be costly, may not generate expected earnings and may occupy a large amount of management's time. There is no guarantee that future potential acquisitions will be available on favourable terms or that they will be successfully integrated. |
| Compensation Fee Structure Risk | The Investment Manager is expected to receive compensation based on the performance of the Portfolio. Performance fee arrangements may create an incentive for the Investment Manager to make more speculative or higher risk investments than might otherwise be the case. |
| Regulatory Risk | All investments carry the risk that their value may be affected by changes in laws and regulations, especially taxation laws. Regulatory risk includes risk associated with variations in the taxation laws of Australia or other jurisdictions in which the Company holds investments. Future changes in taxation law may impact the future tax liabilities of ACQ or may affect taxation treatment of an investment in ACQ shares, or the holding or disposal of those shares. Tax liabilities are the responsibility of each individual shareholder. |
| Interest Rate Risk | Interest rate movements may adversely affect the value of the Company through their effect on the price of a security and the cost of borrowing. |
| Liquidity Risk | The Company is exposed to liquidity risk in relation to the investments within its Portfolio. If a security cannot be bought or sold quickly enough to minimise potential loss the Company may have difficulty satisfying commitments associated with financial instruments. |

Risks associated with not taking up New Shares under the Entitlement Offer

General Risks

General Economic Climate
Stock Market Conditions

Share markets tend to move in cycles, and share prices may fluctuate and underperform other asset classes over extended periods of time. The value of the New Shares quoted on the ASX may rise or fall depending on a range of factors beyond the control of the Company. Shareholders of the Company are exposed to this risk both through their holding in new Shares as well as through the Company's Portfolio.
Investment returns are influenced by numerous economic factors. These factors include changes in the economic conditions (e.g. changes in interest rates or economic growth), changes to legislative and political environment, as well as changes in investor sentiment.

In addition, exogenous shocks, natural disasters and acts of terrorism and financial market turmoil (such as the global financial crisis) can (and sometimes do) add to equity market volatility as well as impact directly on individual entities. As a result, no guarantee can be given in respect of the future earnings of the Company or the earnings and capital appreciation of the Portfolio or appreciation of the Company's share price.
The Company is a listed entity, therefore the ability to sell shares will be a function of the turnover of the shares at the time of sale. Turnover itself is a function of the size of the Company and also the cumulative investment intentions of all current and possible investors in the company at any one point in time.

The Company is listed on the ASX and shares may not trade in line with the underlying value of the Portfolio. Shares may trade at a discount or a premium to NTA.
Recipients are strongly advised to regard any investment in the Company as a medium-to-long term proposition for at least 7 years and to be aware that, as with any investment, substantial fluctuations in the value of thei investment may occur over that period. Even if the investments made by the Company prove successful, they are unlikely to produce a realised return for a number of years.

You should note that if you do not take up all or part of your Entitlement, then your percentage shareholding in ACQ will be diluted by not participating to the full extent in the Entitlement Offer. Investors may also have their investment diluted by future capital raisings by ACQ. ACQ may issue new securities in the future to finance acquisitions or pay down debt which may, under certain circumstances, dilute the value of an investor's interest. Before deciding whether to take up New Shares under the Entitlement Offer, you should seek independent advice.

Factors such as inflation, currency fluctuations, interest rates, legislative changes, political decisions and industrial disruption have an impact on operating costs. The Company's future income, asset values and Share price can be affected by these factors and, in particular, by the market price for any products or services that the Company may acquire or sell.
There are general risks associated with an investment in the share market.
