RE: TABCORP HOLDINGS LIMITED RESPONSE TO ASX AWARE LETTER

Dear Sir / Madam,

We refer to your letter dated 2 September 2024 (ASX Aware Letter) and set out Tabcorp Holdings Limited's (TAH) response to the requests for information raised therein, using the same numbering (noting the numbering commences at number 2). Unless otherwise indicated, capitalised terms in this letter have the same meaning as given in the ASX Aware Letter.

- 2. Does TAH consider that any measure of its statutory or underlying earnings for Financial Year 2024 as disclosed in the Results Announcement ('Earnings Information') differed materially from the market's expectations, having regard to the following three base indicators (in decreasing order of relevance and reliability):

2.1 If TAH had published earnings guidance, the guidance.

TAH did not publish earnings guidance for Financial Year 2024 (FY24).

2.2 If TAH is covered by sell-side analysts, the earnings forecasts of those analysts.

EBITDA and EBIT¹ are the key metrics of focus for market participants in assessing TAH's (and other industry players') earnings performance, and the key metrics tracked by TAH's Board and management in understanding market expectations, as they best reflect the underlying performance of TAH's business. Of these, EBITDA is the preferred metric used by sell-side analysts and investors because it is a closer proxy for operating cash flow given TAH has a number of state-based wagering and gaming licences that recognise (non-cash) amortisation each year.

Having regard to the earnings forecasts of sell-side analysts and the commentary at paragraphs 4(a) and (b) of ASX Guidance Note 8, TAH does not consider that the Earnings Information in relation to FY24 revenue, EBITDA or EBIT differed materially from the market's expectations.

For personal use only

TAH's Earnings Information also includes both statutory and underlying net profit after tax (NPAT), as is required for compliance with ASX Listing Rules and accounting standards. TAH's statutory NPAT differed significantly from the estimates of analysts prior to the release of TAH's FY24 results. In particular, TAH's statutory NPAT incorporated non-cash impairment charges of $1,376.4m (after tax) recognised during finalisation of TAH's FY24 results, which reflected an increase of $644.5m (after tax) to the non-cash impairment charges totalling $731.9m (after tax) recognised at the half year ended 31 December 2023 (1H24). The FY24 statutory result included other significant items (excluding impairment charges) totalling -$11.3m (after tax), comprising transformation costs (-$45.6m), Victorian Wagering and Betting Licence costs (-$53.8m), demerger costs (-$12.6m), MPS divestment (-$6.2m), tax dispute settlement benefit (+$47.9m) and other tax matters benefit (+$59.0m). This compared to other significant items totalling +$77.5m (after tax) recognised at 1H24. In aggregate, the impairment and other significant items resulted in a large divergence between TAH's reported statutory NPAT for FY24 and the estimates of analysts. See paragraph 3.2.3 below for further details.

Notwithstanding the size of the difference in TAH's reported statutory NPAT compared to analyst estimates, TAH does not consider this to be market sensitive given:

- revenue, EBITDA and EBIT are the more relevant earnings metrics for analysts and investors in assessing TAH's performance, and these were tracking broadly in line with consensus;
- investors are aware that over the last two financial years the Company has been undertaking a transformation program and a number of one-off items, which have been classified as significant items, have impacted reported statutory NPAT; and
- the impairment recognised at the finalisation of the full year result was non-cash in nature and the vast majority related to goodwill.

TAH's engagement with market participants since the Results Announcement supports the view that the FY24 reported earnings did not constitute a 'market sensitive earnings surprise'.

2.3 If paragraph 2.1 and 2.2 are not applicable, TAH's earnings for the prior corresponding period, being the 2023 Financial Year.

Not applicable.

3. Please explain the basis for the view provided in response to question 2. In doing so, please specify how TAH determined market expectations in relation to each relevant measure of its earnings, including:

3.1 If TAH had published earnings guidance, details of:

3.1.1 that guidance and when it was released to the market

3.1.2 the date when the entity first became aware with a reasonable degree of certainty that its expected earnings for the relevant reporting period would vary from, or be in line with, that guidance.

As noted above, TAH did not publish earnings guidance.

For personal use only

3.2 If TAH used sell-side analyst forecasts to estimate the market's expectations of its earnings, details of:

3.2.1 the method that TAH used to translate sell-side analyst forecasts into its estimate of market expectations for each measure of earnings referred to in the Earnings Information and, in particular, whether or not TAH used a "consensus estimate" or an "adjusted consensus estimate" or a different specified approach of determining this estimate;

TAH is covered by 13 sell-side analysts whose forecasts TAH tracks as an indicator of the market's earnings expectations.

TAH adopts a consensus estimate methodology to translate sell-side analyst forecasts into its estimate of market expectations, with the consensus estimate being the average forecast for each measure derived from those sell-side analysts (subject to any stale estimates or clear outliers that TAH identifies). In relation to FY24, TAH excluded one sell-side analyst in preparing all consensus estimates, due to stale numbers, and excluded two additional sell-side analysts in preparing the consensus estimate for statutory NPAT, as they had not reflected significant items from 1H24 in their statutory NPAT estimates and as such these were considered material outliers.

TAH's view of consensus is also informed by feedback from advisors and external platforms such as VisibleAlpha. This is used as a cross-check to our primary consensus methodology.

TAH updates its analysis of consensus estimates whenever an analyst report is published.

3.2.2 the entity's expectations of market expectations using that method;

TAH's consensus estimate, based on data compiled on 19 August 2024, of each of the measures of earnings for the relevant reporting period were as follows:

Measure	Consensus ($m)
Revenue	2,307
EBITDA	328
EBIT	102
NPAT before significant items	38.5
Statutory NPAT	(653.2)

3.2.3 the date when the entity first became aware with a reasonable degree of certainty that its expected earnings for the relevant period would vary from, or be in line with, its estimate of these expectations.

TAH held the view in the weeks prior to the Results Announcement that its expected earnings in respect of revenue, EBITDA and EBIT for FY24 were tracking materially in line with market expectations. Based on the data in paragraph 3.2.2 above, the variance between consensus estimates and TAH's reported numbers for FY24 was 1.4% in respect of revenue, -3.1% in respect of EBITDA and -4.5% in respect of EBIT.

For personal use only

As noted above, there was a more significant variance between reported statutory NPAT (with the consensus statutory loss being approximately 50% of the reported loss). This was primarily due to non-cash impairment charges totalling $1,376.4m (after tax) recognised in FY24, of which $644.5m (after tax) was recognised during the finalisation of TAH's FY24 results.

TAH became aware with a reasonable degree of certainty that its statutory NPAT would vary significantly from the consensus estimate upon completion of the impairment testing process that was undertaken in parallel with (and as part of) its full-year results finalisation.

- 4. Does TAH consider that, at any point prior to the release of the Results Announcement, there was a variance between its expected earnings and its estimate of market expectations for the relevant period of such a magnitude that a reasonable person would expect information about the variance to have a material effect on the price or value of TAH's securities?

For the reasons set out in paragraph 2.2 above, TAH does not consider that, at any point prior to the release of the Results Announcement, there was a variance between its expected earnings and its estimate of market expectations for the relevant reporting period of such a magnitude that a reasonable person would expect information about the variance to have a material effect on the price or value of TAH's securities.

- 5. If the answer to question 4 is "no", please provide the basis for that view.

As noted in paragraph 2.2, TAH's EBITDA and EBIT results are the key metrics of focus for investors in respect of TAH's earnings and the primary drivers of TAH's valuation. Having regard to ASX's guidance on materiality in ASX Guidance Note 8, TAH's EBITA and EBIT results for FY24 were not materially different to the consensus estimates and were well under a 15% variance.

TAH considers that there was a reasonable basis to believe that the reported results for EBITDA and EBIT were within market expectations.

While the variance between TAH's reported statutory NPAT and the consensus estimate for that metric was more substantial, TAH does not consider this to be materially price sensitive for the reasons set out in paragraph 2.2 above.

- 6. If the entity first became aware of the variance before the release of the Results Announcement, did TAH make any announcement prior to the release of the Results Announcement which disclosed the relevant variance? If so, please provide details. If not, please explain why this information was not released to the market at an earlier time, commenting specifically on when you believe TAH was obliged to release the information under Listing Rules 3.1 and 3.1A and what steps TAH took to ensure that the information was released promptly and without delay.

Not applicable.

7. Please provide details or any other explanation TAH may have for the trading in its securities following the release of the Results Announcement.

Since the release of the Results Announcement, representatives of TAH have been actively engaging with market participants. Feedback from those discussions indicates that the decline in TAH's share price following the release of TAH's Results Announcement on 28 August 2024 was most likely driven by forward looking statements in TAH's Results Announcement in relation to the outlook for the 2025 Financial Year in the context of a softer than expected wagering market and an increase in TAH's operating cost profile.

These outlook statements include:

- the macro-economic environment for customers to remain challenging given expectations around interest rates remaining elevated and the high inflation levels that persist. In addition, the regulatory environment continues to tighten and impact the wagering market. As a result of these factors, Tabcorp expects the soft wagering market observed in 2H24 to continue in the near-term;
- pro-forma EBITDA uplift from the new Victorian Wagering and Betting Licence to be $115m based on the FY24 operating environment, versus the prior pro forma of $140m based on FY23 operating conditions; and
- in relation to operating expenditure, the impact of the costs previously allocated to the Victorian Racing Industry Joint Venture, inflationary pressures impacting salaries and wages, higher regulatory costs, dissynergies associated with the demerger of the lotteries and keno business, and a changing mix of technology costs from capex into opex.

8. Please confirm that TAH is in compliance with the Listing Rules and, in particular, Listing Rule 3.1.

Confirmed.

9. Please confirm TAH's responses to the questions above have been authorised and approved in accordance with its published continuous disclosure policy or otherwise by its board or an officer of TAH with delegated authority from the board to respond to ASX on disclosure matters.

Confirmed.

Yours sincerely,
