

MAYNE PHARMA ANNOUNCES NEW DISTRIBUTERx PARTNERSHIP WITH RESILIA PHARMACEUTICALS

1 June 2026, Adelaide, Australia: Mayne Pharma Group Limited (Mayne Pharma or the Company) (ASX:MYX), today announces the Company's wholly owned subsidiary, DistributeRx LLC (DistributeRx), has entered into its first third party partnership with Resilia Pharmaceuticals to exclusively distribute RECEDO® topical gel through DistributeRx's streamlined prescription distribution platform to expand patient access to this innovative treatment. RECEDO® is among the most widely recommended scar gels and wound healing agents in the United States. Under the terms of the agreement, DistributeRx will receive a fixed fee for each RECEDO® prescription filled using the DistributeRx solution, which is expected to deliver the most cost-effective outcome for the product and patients.

RECEDO® topical gel is intended for the management of old and new hypertrophic or keloid scarring resulting from burns, general surgical procedures or trauma wounds.

Resilia Pharmaceuticals, Inc®. is an Atlanta, Georgia-based pharmaceutical company dedicated to the acquisition and growth of branded, generic and over-the-counter pharmaceutical products (www.resiliapharma.com).

Mr Daniel Moore, President of DistributeRx commented "We are pleased to enter into this agreement with Resilia Pharmaceuticals for the distribution of RECEDO® topical gel. Scar management is a category where patients have historically had limited effective options, and the RECEDO® profile positions it well to meet that demand. DistributeRx is well placed to accelerate its commercial reach. We look forward to working with more manufacturers into the future to assist them with patient reach and access through our unique and scalable platform, which continues to show significant growth, ahead of expectations, after three months following our launch."

Mr Harsha Murthy, Executive Chairman of the Board of Resilia Pharmaceuticals said "DistributeRx brings the commercial infrastructure and market reach that RECEDO® deserves. This partnership is an important step in Resilia's plans to expand RECEDO®'s use among prescribers, especially in plastic surgery (such as Mohs surgery procedures) and OBGYN (post-Caesarean section treatment), thereby ensuring more patients across the United States have access to a proven, prescription-grade scar management solution. We look forward to building a strong, mutually beneficial and lasting commercial relationship with DistributeRx and Mayne Pharma."
