The WAM Active (ASX: WAA) investment portfolio increased in June. Copper-gold exploration company Solstice Minerals (ASX: SLS) and electrical, instrumentation and communications services provider Southern Cross Electrical Engineering (ASX: SXE) were contributors to the investment portfolio performance.

Solstice Minerals is a copper-gold exploration company advancing its Nanadie Project in Western Australia. During the month, the company released updated drilling results from its first diamond drilling program, confirming the mineralised system extends to depths of more than 600 metres and remains open at depth. The drilling showed mineralisation continues well below the existing resource, highlighting the potential for the deposit to grow. These results build on earlier drilling and continue to demonstrate the scale and continuity of the system. The project currently hosts a 40.4 million tonnes mineral resource estimate, and we believe the latest results highlight the potential for the resource to grow as drilling continues.

Southern Cross Electrical Engineering is a national provider of electrical, instrumentation and communications services, with growing exposure to data centres, infrastructure and electrification projects. During the month, the company upgraded earnings guidance and strengthened its balance sheet through a capital raising to support further growth. The company secured more than $150 million of new projects, including work linked to data centre construction, and increased its FY2026 underlying earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortisation (EBITDA) guidance to at least $75 million while introducing FY2027 EBITDA guidance of at least $100 million. We believe the company is well positioned to continue growing earnings, supported by demand for data centre capacity and broader electrification trends, with the strengthened balance sheet providing flexibility to pursue further growth opportunities.

Fully franked dividends since inception

The Board declared a fully franked interim dividend of 3.2 cents per share paid on 28 May 2026 and a special fully franked dividend of 1.0 cents per share paid on 30 June 2026.
