- First Au intends to commence data validation following completion, targeting a maiden JORC-compliant Mineral Resource.

First Au Limited ("First Au", "FAU" or "the Company") is pleased to advise that it has entered into a binding agreement to acquire the Ida Valley Project from TechGen Metals ("Seller"). The acquisition comprises two tenements, both Exploration Licences, covering prospective geology within the emerging Ida Fault gold district of Western Australia.

Importantly, the acquisition includes a substantial historical drilling database across the Ida Valley and Pinnacles prospects. Following completion, First Au intends to undertake a systematic validation and review of the historical data, with the objective of defining a maiden JORC-compliant Mineral Resource as efficiently and cost-effectively as possible.

First Au's Executive Chairman, Daniel Raihani, commented:
"The acquisition of highly prospective exploration tenure in the Eastern Goldfields region from TechGen Metals Limited continues the Company's strategy to further build and develop our existing project hubs with strategically placed acquisitions.

"Ida Valley attracted us due to its relatively well-progressed exploration activity and strong potential for further development.

"The Company plans to conduct further exploration activity on the project with the aim of progressing the tenure towards an economic resource in the future."

SUMMARY OF ACQUISITION TERMS

Key Term	Acquisition Terms
Vendor	TechGen Metals
Tenements	E 26/1053 and E 36/1015
Cash consideration	A$100,000, paid as an exclusivity fee
Share consideration	A$100,000 in FAU shares

The acquisition structure provides First Au with exposure to an advanced gold exploration opportunity while maintaining capital discipline.

The existing historical drilling database provides First Au with an opportunity to focus near-term expenditure on data validation and targeted follow-up work, rather than commencing exploration from a greenfields position.

Strategic Rationale

The Ida Valley acquisition is consistent with First Au's strategy of building a portfolio of Western Australian gold assets where existing geological information and previous exploration can provide a potentially accelerated pathway to resource definition. The Project combines:

- an established historical drilling database;
- exposure to prospective Archean greenstone geology;
- a defined near-term data validation program targeting a maiden JORC-compliant Mineral Resource; and
- an acquisition structure that partly links consideration to successful resource definition.

This combination provides First Au with an opportunity to advance the Project rapidly and capital-efficiently while retaining substantial exposure to exploration upside.

The Ida Valley Project

The Ida Valley Project is located on the Ballard Fault, proximal to its convergence with the Ida Fault. The location is predominantly controlled by successions of komatiite and porphyry units with metamorphosed sedimentary inclusions which follow a north-westerly strike.

Prior exploration efforts have advanced the prospects at both Ida Valley (E 29/1053) and Pinnacles (E 36/1015) substantially. Both prospects have been subject to extensive drilling, which will enable First Au to conduct targeted exploration with a focus on advancing the Project further.
